Biography

I currently work in the school of Health at the department of physiotherapy, providing a variety of academic teaching to all three undergraduate years.

I am the Course Director for the Integrated Degree Apprenticeship course – one of the first of its kind in the UK to offer Physiotherapy Degree Apprenticeships through employers and organisations across the UK.

I support 3rd year projects and mentor MSc dissertations on a variety of topics and I also my role as a clinical visitor to our undergraduate students on placement. In addition to this, I am a member of the admissions team, assisting with the recruitment of new prospective students from the UK and abroad.
